TWO ENTERTAINMENT HOURS
from this midnight, and big cities will be celebrating with joyous drinking and shouting the arrival of another year.

Many young people will make excellent resolutions early on New Year's eve and down them a little later, discovering excellent reasons for breaking resolutions as the night wears on. Such is foolish humanity; the weakness of one is the opportunity of the other.

Stalin, ruler of Russia, who calls himself "general secretary" of the Communist Party, has been busy producing machinery to make of Russia an industrial nation and is now concentrating on human beings that can be used as tools. He decides that the ablest among the men shall get higher wages than the others, just starting his newspaper career, complained of the number of tools.

"I would not be too hard on the fools if I were you, Willie. For everybody was very clever, you and I might have a pretty hard time getting along."

Far from being equal, the most striking thing about men is their inequality in intelligence, character and ability. Don Quixote's Sancho Panza was truly:

"All men are as God has made them, and sometimes worse. If men were equal, there would be no need of prisons, chain gangs, electric chair, guillotine, guillotine, said Guzman headmen.

At Hempstead, Long Island, established three hundred years ago, boys found a rusty iron cage and inside it a human body, with arms and legs driven through one of the honey eye sockets. The iron cage, with a rusty door, had a light compartment for the victim's head, like a searchlight of the middle ages. Pirates were at first suggested, but it is now thought more probable the skeleton belonged to some Indian punter.

Next summer our ships will be venturing into Oriental waters," will engage in far-flung wars, covering more than the entire miles of the Pacific Ocean. The search, which reveals for the first time the world and how rapidly those ships would come running home to side away in port, for the bombing planes should sail out from the "Toll" of the sea.

However, while peace lasts, it is an amusing game for naval officers that like to walk up and down a smooth deck, preferring that to flying.

An airplane with four passengers crashed among trees in the Adirondack forest during a blinding storm. Miraculously, all passengers escaped injury. The pilot declared: "We are safe in the forest. We are building fires to help you find us."

Great excitement in aviation circles, the last will be found. We are all lost in space, on the little rafting and sailing the Earth, sailing through the ether more than a thousand miles a minute.

We haven't the faintest idea where we are, why we are bound, when or why the journey started or what happens to us when we leave the Earth. After our three-score and ten. And the eighteen hundred years of human progress on the Earth worthy not at all.

It is the only thing in the lost airplane world not worthy. It would not know enough. We are like that mouse.

Most interesting talk about a municipally planned light and power plant for New York City, from human, planning the coming public response early.

Flares Bring Lumber Flot to Kidnap

Searchers Sight Two Blazing in Wilds
AWAIT DAWN
Sister Ship Hops Off in Teeth of Blizzard

Two flares, which blazed for a few seconds through the darkness and raging blizzard that enveloped the Adirondack Mountain region last night, were the first hope that four men, lost since a Cleveland-Boston airliner crashed Friday night, were still alive.

The flares were reported seen near Lascoville, a small town 14 miles west of Gloversville, which is close to the air line between Albany and Syracuse.

The first was seen shortly after 9 p. m., the time the four lost men were instructed by radio to send up a flare by officials of the American Airways. The second came moments later, it was reported.

Word that flares had been seen was relayed to New York state police and other searchers and by midnight a hundred men had gathered at the town to begin scouring the woods with the first sign of dawn.

Shortly before the first flare was seen, a sister ship of the wrecked airliner, the Albany, was missing plane snowstorm from Albany airport.

PLANE CIRCLES AREA
The plane circled the wooded mountain area, a cross-country search, with a radius of 30 miles of Albany.

Unable to continue the search beyond an hour because of ice fog, the Albany was forced to return to Albany after the plane returned to Albany after the hour, reporting that no trace of the four men was seen.

The search, which reveals for the first time the world and how rapidly those ships would come running home to side away in port, for the bombing planes should sail out from the "Toll" of the sea.

His companions are Earl Dwyer, his brother, and copilot of the plane, John H. Brown, of Boston, another pilot who was riding as a passenger, and R. D. Handbrook of Washington, D. C., a passenger.

Dwyer's message was the first word heard from the plane since Friday night when it disappeared en route from Syracuse to Albany. From 9:30 a. m., the time of the first message, until about 2 p. m., when the wrecked plane damaged radio went dead, futile efforts had been made to locate the plane by means of radio beams sent out from Albany, Syracuse and Buffalo.

BLIZZARD BALKS AID
The blizzard which continued through the night, making it impossible to search for the plane, was the cause of the plane's disappearance. The location of the plane, at approximately 10,000 feet, was not known where to begin to search.

Three National Guard planes left Albany Saturday afternoon with hot flares in an attempt to locate the Albany. They were forced down at Springfield, where they remained all night.

BRUNO'S HATE FOR U. S. CALLED CRIME MOTIVE

Desire for Revenge, Born of War Days, Reason for Kidnap, State to Charge

Copyright, 1934, by Universal Service, Inc.
Flemington, N. J., Dec. 29.—Hated of the United States based on the death of a close friend in a World-War battle with Americans and on his own experiences as a German machine-gunner bombed by A. E. F. airplanes, last Bruno Richard Hauptmann to select Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., "America's most famous baby," as his victim in a murder-kidnap plot, the prosecution will charge in a trial beginning here Wednesday.

Hauptmann's history, as expected to testify that his hatred, increased by a loss of several million dollars in the market crash of 1929, turned Hauptmann into a "man of society," Universal Service is expected exclusively tonight by a high state official.

It had been generally believed Hauptmann, as alleged kidnaper, was motivated only by a desire to make himself financially independent by collecting the ransom, and the reason for selecting the Lindbergh baby had been obscure.

ENVIOUS OF LINDBERGH
The psychiatrist will testify, however, that hatred and desire for revenge were the dominating motives in the crime. They will also state that Hauptmann was envious of Col. Lindbergh's success.

As this sensational new phase of prosecution can be heard in rapid, rapid developments on other fronts, the prosecution will charge that Hauptmann was motivated only by a desire to make himself financially independent by collecting the ransom, and the reason for selecting the Lindbergh baby had been obscure.

JAPAN CHALLENGED BY U. S. DEMANDS NAVAL RATIO

Washington, D. C., 29 (US-INS).—The United States, through Secretary Hull, today challenged Japan's demand for equality of naval armaments.

Within four hours after Japan, through Ambassador Satow, formally denounced the Washington naval treaty, effective December 31, 1936, Secretary Hull made it clear this country will insist on the ratio principle of naval limitation.

"It was to scrap the 5-5-3 ratio, which Japan has insisted on, that Japan has insisted on the ratio principle of naval limitation."

"CHALLENGE OF EQUALITY"
"The Japanese demand for equality of naval armaments cannot be promoted by the desire that all nations have equal rights in the sea and different defensive needs, shall have equal rights in the sea."

The United States insist on the principle of equality of security, that by increasing and limiting the fleets of each nation to a ratio principle of naval limitation.

Hull's statement, carefully drawn, replied to the Japanese argument. The secretary said the Washington pact and the London pact of 1930, have "safeguarded the rights and interests of the collective interests of all the signatories."

"AFFRONT TO PRESTIGE"
To Japan's contention the 5-5-3 ratio is an affront to Japanese national prestige, making Japan a nation inferior to Britain and the United States, Hull's statement pointed out.

"The treaties thus far concluded have involved no invasion of the sovereign rights of the participating governments."

Hull is in no hurry to enter negotiations for a new agreement, the pact laid down by Japan. While anxious to promote the cause of peace and friendship, Hull declared, in effect, this country will start naval armaments race with Japan.

Back-Room Political Trade Bared; Hultman Proves Strength in Ely Deals

Startling revelations of the series of back-room political trades and bargains which brought to Joseph J. Leonard the police commissioner-ship of Boston--a "deal" denounced by every newspaper in the city--were exploded in well informed political circles last night.

Amazing family tie-ups with members of the Governor's Council, half swap and barter of positions as lobby cutters, court places and shuffling of a variety of lesser beths--these were the background of the appointment which so much to Leonard's surprise as anyone's--gave him the job.

Leonard is one of the bargains Governor Ely got in the job market. The Governor also placed State Auditor Francis X. Hurley--a relative by marriage of Mrs. Ely--on the State Board of Tax Appeals.

2700 Reds Named by Police Here After Probe

New England's educational systems are being flooded with un-American doctrine by more than 2700 men and women, many of them college professors and leaders in professional Boston police will tell the Congressional committee at Washington this week.

They will charge that educational institutions that have always been regarded as conservative are really "hotbeds" for Communist teaching and that their list of Reds include the name of a master printer who prints all radical literature. (See story on Page 2.)

Many of the nation's universities would profit by an investigation of Communist activities, leaders of the National Student Federation, holding its 10th annual congress in Boston, asserted last night.

The federation, representing 150 universities and 250,000 students, believes in academic freedom on the campus and in the classrooms, but does not believe in carrying it to the point of equating un-American doctrines, its leaders declared.

Warning that the student bodies must take cognizance of the growth of un-American tendencies in American institutions of learning was voiced by the federation's president, John A. Lang (University of North Carolina) and Dr. W. H. White (University of West Virginia), chairman of the committee on academic freedom.

The meeting will continue through Tuesday with more than 200 student delegates present from all sections of the country.

CCC Revolt Plan Is Blamed on New Yorker

House Probe Told of Soviet Aim to Seize U. S.

Washington, Dec. 29 (US-INS).—A Communist plot to kidnap the President and members of his cabinet, preparatory to a rebellion of a Soviet government in the United States, was related today to the House committee investigating un-American activities, of which Rep. John W. McCormack of Boston is chairman.

Walter S. Steel, magazine editor, charged a widely circulated Communist plan called for raids on arsenals, winning over the army and national guard, and the use of force to complete the overthrow. During the disorder the President and all cabinet officers would be kidnapped, Steel said.

Steel declared Communism has been growing in America to an amazing degree during the depression. He said they are now at work to overthrow the government.

He hundred separate Communist movements.

Ten thousand recently recruited into the ranks of the International Workers' organization, including 3800 youths.

Steel could give an estimate of the total of Communists now in the United States, but said there were more than in Russia in 1917, the year of the revolution. From one Communist party, widely circulated in Minnesota, Steel said: "Civil war is the inevitable result of the struggle against the capitalist class, fight for action."

Steel said that the country in the not too distant future was going to be the dogs and he wanted an organization to take it over at that time.

The plan according to McCormack was to recruit an army of 500,000 men, the units to be trained on Martinelli's Bernardino, N. J., estate.

Another witness, Albert G. Christie, attorney for Robert Sterling Clark, New York millionaire banker, testified Clark had fought against inflation and dollar devaluation. Clark financed Gerald P. Maguire in a money drive to bring the American Legion into the country. He said Maguire was reported to have spent $40,000 "for the cause of the Legionnaires" at Chicago in 1933.

With today's hearing the committee addressed with the future course of the investigation of un-American activities. The committee was made up of Rep. Foulkes (D., of Michigan), and the chairman declared "followers of Herr Hitler, infest this country" seeking to set up a dictatorship.

Baltimore, Dec. 29 (US-INS).—Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, commander of the Third Corps area, was today called to testify in Washington that Jackson County, N. Y., had been recruited CCC workers into an army to help build the federal government. Gen. Malone said:

"Harrisburg is a substantial citizen. This is a patriotic feeling. I place no credence in the words of the federal government. Gen. Malone said:

PAL OF Baby Face NABBED

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP).—Capture of John Paul Chase, identified as a partner of the late Baby Face Nelson, was announced today at the Department of Justice.

Chase is a Californian. He was arrested Dec. 27 at Mt. Shasta, Cal.

The capture will be brought to Chicago and charged with the murder of Inspector Samuel P. Crowley and Special Agent Herman E. Hollis, the two federal operatives who were killed at Harrison, Ill., on Nov. 27 in the gun battle which cost Nelson his life.

Nelson's hideout was found the next day at Niles Center, Ill. After the shooting, Mrs. Nelson, whose real name is Mrs. Helen Gillis, was arrested in Chicago as one of those present at the battle.

Nelson was an associate of the Chicago gangster, Alvin Karpis, and was believed to be the killer of Special Agent Charles J. Spillane, of Spillane, Wis., on April 25.

Nelson had been known as a recent known as Little Bohemia.

In the course of the investigation of that incident looking toward the capture of Dillinger and the Baby Face, the Department of Justice learned that Chase was one of Nelson's most intimate associates.

HAPPY NEW YEAR! Bargain Prices to Rule

35,000 GET Their Tables

$6 A PLATE

CITY POISED FOR BIG HOLIDAY CELEBRATION

Amid scenes of gayety unsurpassed since the World War, the cherubic baby 1935 will be ushered into Boston New Year's Eve by more than 50,000 celebrators, who will spend a half-million dollars to make his christening the most hilarious in history.

Truly the infant will be born with a silver spoon in his mouth. Hotel and club managements vow they've never seen the like of it.

The average price per plate is $6. That doesn't include liquor. Prices run from $3 in the restaurants to $5 at the swankier hotels.

To date in the leading downtown hotels 23,000 reservations have been made. An additional 15,000 will join the clubs and restaurants, while some 10,000 others will tie themselves to road houses for their drinks and whoopee.

Full Cellars

The wine cellars of all the hotels are jammed to the ceilings with champagne and liquor to take care of the imbibers. Noise and floor shows and music will complete the party.

Wholesale liquor dealers report that their added stocks of liquors imported for the occasion have been completely sold.

All the cab companies will put extra cabs on the street. The Elevated will keep the rapid transit until 2 a. m., with extra street cars offering good service all night.

And, of course, to take care of the usual traffic jams, wandering celebrators and what not, extra details of police will be on hand.

Many think that covers the situation. But Miss Pickford refuses to talk, even to those close to her. All that is certain is that it is to be a divorce, after 12 years of married life, instead of reconciliation.

PICKFORD DIVORCE

Is It for Doug's Sake?

Los Angeles, Dec. 29—Mary Pickford has fooled Hollywood again.

Ever since "Doug" returned from Europe, after his romantic mix-up with the beautiful Lady Ashley, he impression has grown that Miss Pickford was prepared to "forget and forgive."

Some kind of announcement to that effect has been expected since Lady Ashley's husband obtained a divorce a few weeks ago.

But today came a bombshell in the announcement that her attorney, Lloyd Wright, has been instructed to go ahead with her divorce immediately after the first of the year, with the probability that it will be granted within thirty days.

It was pointed out that this will save "Doug" free to marry Lady Ashley, and there seems every probability that he will, despite their reported split when he returned to America.

So a new question rises: Was Mary initiated one of the many self-sacrificing roles she played on the screen, and decided to place her own happiness second to that of her husband?

Many think that covers the situation. But Miss Pickford refuses to talk, even to those close to her. All that is certain is that it is to be a divorce, after 12 years of married life, instead of reconciliation.

DENY CAROL Has Bride

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Rumanian legation denied today that King Carol has been married to Kinga Lupescu, as reported in Vienna dispatches.

A legation statement said: "The Rumanian legation in Washington has been instructed by the Rumanian government to give the most categorical denial to the news telegraphed from Vienna that his majesty King Carol had been secretly married during the years between 1925 and 1928. The Rumanian legation has been authorized to state that his majesty King Carol has not contracted any marriage, secret or otherwise, since his divorce from Princess Helen of Greece."

The liquor licensor reported that the supply at the close of the year was not as plentiful as in the past.

Both youths spun on their heels, believing they were trapped. As they did, McLaughlin lifted a heavy boot with lightning speed and hit one of the gunmen such a kick that he went stumbling toward the floor.

The youths dashed from the store to a waiting car and escaped.

FDIC SEEKS New Power

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP)—Broad powers for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation are sought by Chairman Crowley, who yesterday yielded to the demand of Senator Glass (D-Va.) that a recent order of the board lowering certain interest rates be rescinded.

The FDIC board was called today by Crowley to meet Monday to reconsider the order lowering from three to a maximum of 2½ percent on time and saving deposits in insured banks which are not members of the Federal Reserve.

Glass recently charged the new rate fixed by the FDIC was "illegal" under the limited authority granted the board.

Can't Get Enough Liquor

Portland, Me., Dec. 29—The demand was still running far ahead of the supply at the close of Maine's first week of legal liquor today.

Despite the possibility because of a howling snowstorm, thirsty customers continued to stand in line all day at this city's two state liquor stores.

Clerks reported there were never less than 100 customers in line and during the busy hours as many as a hundred at a time.

Similar rushes were reported at the other liquor stores throughout the state.

The liquor commission stated that additional stores will be opened in the principal cities of the state as quickly as possible.

State liquor controller announced that the state stores had taken in a total of $46,000 up to closing time Thursday.

GLORIA BACK 'At Home'

New York, Dec. 29 (AP)—Child Gloria Vanderbilt, her mother's weekend daughter, was whisked into the Vanderbilt home at 10 a. m. today under the watchful eyes of five detectives.

Three detectives received the 10-year-old heiress to the house. Two others stayed close by her side as her nurse and the chauffeur hurried her in.

It was the child's second weekend with Mrs. Oliver Morgan Vanderbilt, who is carrying her fight for full custody to the appellate division since Supreme Court Justice John P. Carew made Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, little Gloria's paternal aunt, the five-day guardian.

There was only one reporter and two cameramen outside the Vanderbilt home when the limousine arrived from the Whitney estate at Old Westbury, L. I. Even passers-by were uninterested when the child slipped out of the limo and walked quickly into the house.

For three of the stores, those at Waterville, Bangor and Houlton, the figures show only three days' business, as in these stores did not open their doors until Monday.

Popular brands were cleaned out of all stores in the first day's business, and due to the rush, there have been some complaints from the state storehouses. Although there has been considerable protest regarding the lack of the Better-known brands, the customers have continued snapping up anything handed out to them.

STATE EXPECTS TO ISSUE 50,000 TOMORROW

Fifteen thousand persons stormed the registry of motor vehicles yesterday in a second last minute rush to secure registration plates. They took away with them 31,000 sets of plates.

By order of Registrar Morgan T. Ryan the office was kept open an hour later, until 1:30, to accommodate the thousands left outside at 12:30.

Officials said yesterday that they expect to issue 50,000 sets of plates tomorrow, the last day of the year. To date approximately 31,000 sets have been issued and with the 50,000 more to be issued tomorrow, there will be about 41,000 licensed vehicles on the roads of the state.

Between Oct. 26 and Dec. 24, 24,000 sets of plates were put out by the department. Last Wednesday, there were 20,000 issued, 30,000 on Thursday and Friday.

New Relief

APPEALS TO 48
STATES FOR SUPPORT

Washington, Dec. 29 (US-INS)—President Roosevelt today set in motion a sweeping program for eradicating unemployment through a nation-wide public works drive.

He called on the governors of 48 states to join in a plan designed to return 4,000,000 men and women, now on relief, to productive labor.

The President urged changes in local laws so that the federal government can spend up to $100,000,000 in states, cities and rural districts for such revenue-producing projects as housing, slum clearance, and water, sewer and electric power systems.

Personal Plea

At the same time, the President conferred with Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic majority leader of the Senate, in the federal legislative program to carry out the administration's aim.

It became increasingly evident that the chief feature of this program will be the new public works relief plan. The President considers it of such importance he will go to the Capitol and deliver his message in person to Congress, January 4.

Instead of continuing to pour out billions for the dole, the President wants to have set up a huge fund for public works loans to localities.

The four outstanding advantages seen in this change are:

In a letter to the governors and government-sect, the President offered them the assistance of the FWA in legal staff in drafting the necessary local legislation.

Her work in miniature also has received wide recognition.

DOG HOWLS

By Master's DEAD BODY

Webster, Dec. 29—Nils Johnson, 55, farm hand, was separated from his family and almost friends, but he had a little dog.

The little dog found Johnson and the dog on a highway near Johnson, was dead, apparently killed by a hit-and-run motorist. His dog sat on his body and barked loudly at it.

They spent about an hour trying to coax the dog away and when they finally got the body in an undertaker's basket the dog jumped in, and ran back to the undertaker's place.

There they had to leave the dog to get it away and later when they released it it went back to the undertaker's and lay down at Johnson's feet. A couple of policemen wanted to take it home but it wouldn't go.

PAY CUTS To Stay

Indications that the 10 per cent wage cut in force for the past two years in all municipal departments in Malden would remain through 1935 came last night when Fire Commissioner John H. Hanson expressed his disappointment that the cut would be retained.

The suit brought by firemen for the restoration of their cuts now, pending on an appeal from the lower court, had ruled against them.

RESCUERS NEAR 'RIGGED' BODY LOCKED IN ICE

Police to Take Fingerprints
Even Before Victim Is Freed
From Tangle of Machinery

By ARTHUR J. QUINN
Boston Sunday Advertiser Staff
Correspondent

Windsor Locks, Ct., Dec. 29.—Spectacular attempts to identify the lock-trapped body which may be that of the missing Dr. George H. Bigelow will begin at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning.

That hour 15 workmen with drills will attack the canal ice around the sucker pump where the body is caught in the mechanism. When they have sufficiently cleared away the ice, Sergeant J. Warren Tooleen of the Massachusetts state police will be lowered into the pump in a boson's chair to take the fingerprints of the dead man.

Tooleen has the fingerprints of the missing Massachusetts General Hospital director and will know in a half hour whether the body is that of Dr. Bigelow. The hopes of making the identification tonight were abandoned when he could find the body. It was indicated that the heavy ice coating would not drop the necessary 12 feet until tomorrow.

Plans to use steam on the ice were discarded because steam might injure the fingers, which may prove to be the only positive means of identification.

Police said two days may be required to extricate the body. If it has not been removed by Monday, the lowered water in the locks will deprive several miles of power and cause some 800 workers to be idle.

Doctor Ired by Wrong Phone Calls

Berkeley, Cal., Dec. 29.—"How's the ice tonight, please?" On the verge of "telephoning" Dr. N. Edmund Palmer, Newton yesterday appealed to the telephone company to get something right away about changing his phone number—or that of the Newton playground department.

It is estimated that the two numbers are almost identical, and for the past month the good doctor—who sets calls enough on his own account, goodness knows—has been kept on the jump day and night, answering misdirected calls from skating enthusiasts.

Foley Reveals Evils of Jury Fixing

REVISION DIRE NEED OF SYSTEM

District Attorney Reveals
How Shysters Prey
Upon Jurors

Jury fixing is a common evil in the courts of Massachusetts. Only drastic reorganization of the jury system will put an end to it. This is the opinion of the district attorney, who has been working for some time on making a study of the system, to the glorification of the law.

Trials lag interminably, particularly in the criminal courts. People lose faith in their judges and the entire legal system. Magistrates who are dramatically different in temperament from the judges are too few in number; court room facilities are too meager.

Jury dodging continues popular among the very people who prize law and order.

And the above are just a few weaknesses in the administration of the law, as exposed in an interview with the Boston Sunday Advertiser by William J. Foley, district attorney for Suffolk county.

The criticism was inspired by the recent and aggressive entry of the Harvard Crime Commission into the crime situation here.

Not that the intensely practical Mr. Foley agrees with all the findings of the academic investigators of the judicial system.

Some of them, he thinks, have a way of adding two and two and getting five.

In Foley's experience, shysters lawyers who go in for jury fixing rarely make the approach direct. They fear disbarment.

"All sorts of dodges are employed," he recalled, "some of them almost incredibly round-about and subtle."

Once a case is by a lawyer was tampered with to get a patient who was on a capital jury.

Introduced, he began talking about real estate, about the merits of his firm, and then he made his point.

Mr. Foley smiled, like the cat that ate the cream. He came to the jury dodging.

"The jurymen squawked. And the better was sent away."

In his long service as a prosecutor, Foley has reached a definite conclusion as to the action society should take to discourage jury fixing.

"There isn't much we can do after the bribe is passed, unless the better-fabricator turns state's evidence," he pointed out.

"But we can do something before. A strenuous reorganization of the jury system is indicated."

In Massachusetts, it is the custom to divide panels of 100 to 200 men, to serve various sessions.

"Thus, the talsmen available in a given session may number only a few more than two twelve-man juries."

Naturally, talsmen do not go direct from one case to another. Only 16 or 18 men are on a roll, and the rest are available for the next case.

Defense counsel, if he has a shyster, has fair warning hours before. Sometimes, even days before.

Urges Reform

highly respected shysters haven't done and all the rest of it." There are inequalities in the law relating to juvenile delinquency that must be ironed out before the judicial system is perfect, Mr. Foley believes.

"One child is charged with a specific offense," he stated. "The other, guilty, or not of the same offense, is charged with being a delinquent child."

"The treatment of these cases is different. And appealed cases of delinquent minors elude our courts."

Selected bits of opinion gathered from Foley's long experience as the attorney for the state:

"I always ask a jail sentence for a dope pedler. We try to treat the miserable users more leniently."

"Sprey trials are an outstanding need. In the criminal courts of Suffolk we have speeded things up. We are pretty well abreast of the situation."

"Sorry, but the civil courts are not so happy. Some cases are five years old.

"Repeat has made an appreciable difference in the problem of crime by violence. Not that such crime has disappeared. But it is being lessened."

"Specifically, hijacking is no longer a major manifestation of lawlessness. All those bootleggers were easy marks for the hi-jackers. Now the business is legal."

Boatwearing goes on, but it is not a great industry, as it was. Nor are those engaged in it able to pay the ransom and the black mail sure they did.

Foley is a sedate and settled and balanced individual. He thinks the time is long past when the criminals left over from the prohibition regime.

But not the time to become hysterical about it. The tougher women are on their way out. And potential successors face very rough going under conditions as they are today.

my memory that nearly every one of them brought in doctors' certificates showing their physical unfit to serve.

"In addition to a judge and a prosecutor, there must be a jury in a capital trial. If all the supposedly 'high class' people run out on us, we must try the accused with what is left. But, at least, they might stop crying about the way the law is administered after they have abdicated their duties as American citizens."

The district attorney addressed himself to the subject of crime-commissions, zone surveys, those "out of 500 cases" books and other abracadabra connected with the study of lawlessness.

"I remember a survey that found out a lot of cases appeared from the magistrates' courts were not pressed up here," he said. "The total loss were in the tools of the law for being done."

"Some magistrates are very severe on such offenders. Others are very lenient."

"All appeals were in cases where extraordinarily stiff sentences had been visited on the heads of the culprits. It cost about $100 a day to run a superior court. The judges have a sense of equity and justice. With one chronic drunk getting a mild fine and another a month or two in jail, the question of reasonableness arises."

"In such cases as I have not pressed, rarely has there been any expectation that the higher court would sustain the drastic sentence of the lower."

"The same holds true in gambling complaints. One magistrate will fine a gambler $25, if, indeed, he imposes a fine at all."

"Another will fine him $250, of course, the first one pays, and the second appeals."

"What's the use of trying such cases, unless there is evidence of bribery or grave moral turpitude?"

The legal profession is getting overworked, the district attorney admitted, making ambulance chasing and jury fixing and unnecessary lawsuits more frequent.

"Don't forget," he warned, "not all the ambulance chasers are running around inspiring victims to sue. Some do it as corporations, the insurance companies, I have reason to know."

DOCTORS CONVINCE "They get the unfortunate and possibly illiterate victim to sue on the dotted line, then collect a fee. And the fee for a lawyer would obtain for trying the case in court."

"Speaking of ambulance chasing, how about the big lawyers who specialize in tax appeals?"

"Can we say such men and the little men who run about soliciting persons injured by careening automobiles are not brothers under the skin?"

"Nobody can convince me the specialized clientele that finds its way to the doors of some of the big tax lawyers with influence get there by accident."

"Or that those dignified and Concord, N. H., Dec. 29.—Investigation of the arrest of David G. Miller, federal tax investigator and former Wall Street man, was begun today by Attorney-General Francis W. Johnson.

Circumstances of Miller's arrest on drunken driving charges by New Hampshire police November 23 will be investigated by John J. Sheehan, Hillsboro county solicitor, Johnson stated.

Miller, employed by the federal government as a tax collector in the New Hampshire Internal Revenue district, was arrested on a drunken driving complaint after his car had crashed into a pole.

A young woman who was with Miller at the time of his arrest was released, and federal officials issued a statement that he had been accompanied by her for cars in a search for illegal liquor sales.

2 Americans Are Jailed in Saar

Saarbrücken, Dec. 29 (AP).—Guards along the French side of the Saar frontier were heavily informed tonight as two Americans struggled to extricate themselves from difficulties with German and Saar authorities.

Meanwhile, Americans back home in the Saar to vote in the plebiscite January 13 were frightened at reports published in European newspapers that they might lose their United States citizenship.

In the face of the rigid regulations intended to keep undesirable and more curious out of the Saar, such as it is of hotels and hotel rooms, was Chester Watkins, of Atlanta, Ga., arrested at Mettlach.

In prison at Waldmohr, Germany, was Miss Elsie Stittell, of New York, jailed because she allegedly made derogatory remarks about Adolf Hitler's Storm Troops.

Washington, Dec. 29 (AP).—Immigration authorities tonight reported that American citizens would lose their citizenship by voting in the Saar plebiscite.

JAIL U. S. GIRL FOR NAZI SLUR

Waldmohr, Rhenish Palatinate, Germany, Dec. 29 (INS).—An outbreak of temper in which she uttered that Reichsführer Adolf Hitler was a swine was the reason for the imprisonment here of Elsie Stittell, New York secretary, on December 23, a customs official reported at the time told International News Service today.

Miss Stittell, 29-year-old native and American, was en route to visit her parents at Glanville, near Trarbach, when she was arrested.

"Miss Stittell," related the customs official, "seemed to resist the baggage inspection procedure."

"She gave vent to her nerves and broke forth in wild denunciations, even after she was particularly asked to be quiet. Instead of being quiet she burst forth."

"Oh, your Hitler looks Jewish," she said. "I am not German any more. His type is certainly not Teutonic, so what's the idea of treating Jews so harshly?"

FORD V-8 FOR 1935

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 is a motor car designed for comfort as well as efficiency.

Three years ago, the Ford Motor Company brought a new standard of motor performance within reach of the average purchaser by introducing the Ford V-8. The outstanding reliability and economy of its V-8 engine have been proved in the service of more than a million motorists.

For 1935, the Ford Motor Company takes another pioneering step and gives you ease of riding to match that modern engine performance.

This achievement is Center-Poise Riding—accomplished by a fundamental change in car design—with new, correct weight distribution, new seat position and new springing. The improvement is especially noticeable in the back seat. You ride forward, toward the center of the car—away from the rear axle and away from the bumps. Rear-seat passengers now have the comfort of a "front-seat ride."

CORRECT WEIGHT DISTRIBUTION AND A SPRINGBASE OF 123 INCHES

Scientific distribution of weight has been effected by completely redesigning the chassis. Engine, frame and body are all so balanced that their weight is about equally distributed on all four wheels. This permits the use of longer, more flexible springs, both front and rear.

The springbase of the New Ford V-8 is 123 inches, eleven inches longer than the wheelbase. The front spring is mounted forward of the front axle, instead of directly over it. The rear spring is mounted eight inches behind the rear axle. This long springbase gives increased comfort without sacrificing ease of handling.

Spring leaves are tapered to insure quiet operation as well as greater flexibility.

The Ford policy of constant improvement is reflected also in the beautiful body lines of the New Ford V-8 for 1935. They are distinctively modern, yet not extreme. The whole appearance of the car is one of grace and substantial strength.

DISTINCTIVE NEW LINES AND A NEW KIND OF RIDING COMFORT

NEW BODY ROOM—NEW BRAKES—NEW CLUTCH—EASIER STEERING

The New Ford V-8 is longer and wider, with more leg room, more seat room and more luggage room. The front seats are 4 to 5½ inches wider and seat three comfortably. The car is lower—easier to step in and out. Rear doors in sedans are wider. The new pillowed seats are unusually comfortable, with softer back springs and seat springs. The new interior finish, upholstery and appointments are richer and more luxurious than anything you have ever seen in a low-price car.

Other important 1935 features are the newly designed brakes and clutch, with softer action, requiring less foot pressure on the pedals, easier steering and new lower X-type frame. The front doors now open forward. There are two new body types—Touring Sedans, with built-in trunk. All 1935 Ford cars are equipped with Safety Glass throughout, at no additional cost.

RECORDS ON C. W. CAMPBELL PAROLE BONE

Card Revealing Who Backed Release of Burglar Just Re-arrested Is Found Missing

All the records relating to the parole of Chester W. Campbell, ex-convict arrested Friday for robbing the same home of the same valuable antiques for which he was sent to prison for 9 to 12 years, have mysteriously vanished from the files of the Department of Corrections, inquiries at the State House revealed yesterday.

Campbell was paroled in 1926. This year, after serving six years of his sentence, two-thirds of the minimum of nine years.

No information as to who sponsored his request for release, who acted as his attorney or what facts were brought out at his hearing was available yesterday.

"His card is not in the office," was the report at the department.

HAS LONG RECORD

But there was plenty of information on file with various departments concerning the youth who confessed that as soon as he got out of custody of the State he went back to the business of robbing summer homes of taking furnishings valued at $20,000.

His record dates back to 1922. It follows:

Oct. 15, 1922, Brookline, auto larceny, defaulted, sentenced to State House, 3 years for auto larceny.

April 28, 1923, Boston, auto larceny, 18 months probation.

Dec. 17, 1923, Middlesex Superior court, auto larceny, 18 months in house of correction and $200 fine.

Sept. 28, 1928, Worcester Superior court, breaking and entering and larceny, no fine imposed.

Nov. 18, 1928, Suffolk Superior court, larceny, 18 months in house of correction.

Jan. 28, 1928, breaking and entering and larceny in the night, dismissed for want of prosecution.

Jan. 28, 1928, Worcester, breaking and entering and larceny, 18 months in house of correction.

Jan. 28, 1928, escaped from Norfolk Prison Colony, returned voluntarily, released on parole.

Oct. 7, 1934, warrant issued for violation of parole.

Dec. 28, 1934, arrested for breaking and entering and larceny.

NEVER PUNISHED

In his report on the Norfolk prison colony, which resulted in release of Campbell, the State Auditor Francis X. Hurley charged that Campbell's escape from that institution was either intentional or not mentioned at all at his hearings before the board of parole.

Campbell was listed by Hurley as one of Supt. Gilla's pumpered favorites at Norfolk. His exposure of the fact that the youth was never prosecuted or punished for his escape resulted in a report from the state commissioner of corrections, Frederick J. Dillane, that escaped prisoners be taken to court.

In Hurley's report it was disclosed that Campbell had made more money at Norfolk than any other prisoner, having his credit at one time of $1300.

It was believed Campbell used this money in retaining counsel to aid him in securing his parole.

At the time Campbell secured his surprising release on parole, despite his long record, the parole board was composed of Seymour H. Stone, Deputy Commissioner of Corrections, and Matthew W. Bullock. Stone has since been replaced by P. Emmett Garvin.

LEONARD IN INSPECTION AT HEADQUARTERS

No Changes at Present; Plans to Visit Stations and Talk With Policemen on Beats

New Police Commissioner Joseph J. Leonard spent yesterday exploring headquarters departments, endorsing over the radio system, telling of his plans to become "one of the boys" and denying any contemplated changes.

He said he had made no definite plans concerning Secretary Augustus Gill and Legal Advisor Leo Schwartz, Hultman holdovers, and stated his intention of retaining them for the time being.

Nor has he made any plans involving Thomas Ray and J. Paul Keefe, he said. They were reported scheduled for the Gill-Schwartz jobs in the trading that made Leonard commissioner.

Asked to comment upon Governor-elect Curley's attack on his appointment, he said:

"This is an issue I do not care to discuss at the present time."

As an commissioner, Leonard says he plans to make a leisurely inspection of policing by strolling into the various divisions, talking to policemen on their beats and at their stations. He said:

"It will help me get better acquainted with the men."

Those doing their duty need have no fear of changes, he declared.

He has already made plans to confer with his headquarters leaders and the division captains to get their ideas on law enforcement, learn what is being done and how it can be improved.

ALL RECORDS relating to the parole of Chester W. Campbell, ex-convict, are missing at the State House, an inquiry there revealed yesterday.

PROBE LOOKS 3 ARMY MEN

Washington, Dec. 29 (US-INS)—With a federal grand jury ready to consider the evidence, Secretary of War Dern disclosed today that three army officers are "more or less seriously" implicated in charges of corrupt lobbying practices in connection with army contracts.

Dern added that another "small group of officers" is implicated in a "minor matter" but added that the allegations are personal and there is no charge of widespread corruption.

He said that the three officers named are Lt. Leslie K. Garnett, revealed he is ready to lay the evidence to the grand jury.

Dern's statement was the first admission by the War Department of the seriousness of the charges involved.

The House Military Affairs Committee recently reported to me on the investigations it has carried on for nearly a year.

The evidence submitted, which has been given publicity through the press from time to time—involved three officers more or less seriously and a small group of officers in a minor matter. In each case the alleged guilt is personal and there is no suggestion of widespread corruption.

"I have directed the inspector general to make a thorough and impartial investigation in each case. Appropriate action will be taken as soon as he has completed the report."

Inside Story of Trade for Leonard's Now Told

Rly administration to get him off the Finance Commission and place him beyond reach of Governor-elect James M. Curley's axe, he was headed for: (1) judge of probate in Suffolk; (2) municipal court judge in Suffolk; (3) membership on the Boston Licensing Board; (4) membership on the Industrial Accident Board. Something, as heretofore related, came up to block all these.

Not so much consideration was being given all this while to the name of Police Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman. His resignation was sought without promise that he would be placed and he was honorably refused, as late as last Wednesday, to get out.

The Ely forces argued with him that he was out on May 1, when his term expired, anyway. His answer was that Leonard would be commissioner—just as soon as Curley took office and that if a place could be made for Leonard, a place could also be made for Hultman.

As an engineer, he wanted the chairmanship of the Department of Districts Commission.

Finally Governor Ely, Lieut.-Gov. Charles G. Henshaw and Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield came to an agreement that Leonard would make a good police commissioner (Mansfield being aware of the plan before Leonard) and it was decided to give Hultman what he wanted in order to place Leonard.

On Thursday morning the governor telephoned Hultman at his home and told him to come into town for a good news. Hultman left a stick but went to the State House, was offered the District Commission chairmanship, produced his resignation and the deal went through.

The Ely pressure for Hultman's resignation was exerted immediately following Curley's election when it became apparent that Curley would place a man of his own choice in the commission.

Various influences supported Hultman in his bid to demand to be taken care of before clearing the way for another Ely man.

PRESSURE FOR LEONARD

There was tremendous pressure for Ely administration to take care of Leonard, whose friends claimed the administration had been ordered by his aid to place Curley while chairman of the finance commission.

Mrs. Leonard, the politician in the family, a member of the Department of Finance Committee and of the Home Owners' Association, possibly considering his aid to place Curley while chairman of the finance commission.

Leonard was considered for this and the place and something else was made up to appeal the plan.

Governor Ely received Judge William Dolan's resignation from the Supreme Court bench and of the Finance Commission and the Court bench, left vacant by the elevation of Judge Stanley Qua to the Supreme Court.

Dolan changed his mind. Leonard was slated for his post, but after stepping on the offer Dolan changed his mind.

Certain forces were demanding that Leonard be placed in the administration powers tried to force the resignation of a municipal court judge in order to make a place. This judge refused to resign and was placed in the administration.

There was talk of placing Leonard in the vacancy on the Boston Licensing Board for which Paul Keefe, campaign manager for Governor-elect Charles H. Cole had been scheduled until the executive committee turned down the plan.

Councillor Daniel H. Conkley put the "klobok" on that spot for Leonard, holding out for Edward Gallagher, who eventually got the post.

BACON BACKS ELY

The next decision was to put Leonard on the Industrial Accident Board and this plan had the support of no less an influence than U. S. Senator David I. Walsh, but unexpected opposition developed.

FINANCE GROUP IN TUNNEL CLASH

Commission Report Cites
$31,886 Fees Received
by Good Government Aid

Boston's new traffic tunnel precipitated a controversy last night between three members of the Finance Commission and Robert J. Bottomley, former secretary of the Good Government Association and former of the metropolitan transit district.

In a report of three out of five finance commission members, Attorney Bottomley was cited as the recipient of $31,886 in fees, alleged to have been received from clients in land litigation.

Attorney Bottomley pointed out that one of the signers had paid him by a client more money than any other real estate speculator. He added:

"I worked for my client. I collected my bill therefore. It is nobody's business but my own. These matters are outside of the jurisdiction given the finance commission by the legislature. The finance commission report quoted statements of Attorney Bottomley that were given at a recent hearing in which he was said to have stated that he was paid for the new tunnel."

Bottomley maintained that the money received was for legal services and that they were properly split with Flaherty, his partner in the law business at the time the legal processes in connection with the land takings were handled.

The finance commission report was given to Mayor Mansfield. It was signed by Charles Moorfield Storey, Alexander Wiersted and Joseph J. Donahue.

Blanche Sweet Prefers Love to a Successful Stage Career Star of Silent Cinema, Now on Stage, Says They Won't Mix

She Is Enthusiastic About
Her Work, but Would Rather Be Married

Blanche Sweet, lovely star of the silent picture, now launches into a stage career at the Shubert Theatre in "The Petrified Forest." She emerges from retirement, looking just as slim and as naturally blonde as the girl who rose to such glamourous stardom around the diplo-

D. W. Griffith and Cecil B. DeMille. She is happy and enthusiastic about the play and about her future in the legitimate drama. But there is an expectation that a new found joy concerning her personal life which came in superlative her other emotions. So it was quite pertinent that she express her ideas on life in relation to a career.

She said:

"I had to choose between love and money, marriage and money. I would, of course, choose love and marriage."

SHE'S IN LOVE

She talked eagerly and her blue eyes shone with conviction. She made no secret of the fact that she is, at present, very much in love. But that she said, has nothing to do with her ideas in general.

"I have always believed," she said, "that marriage and a family should be the ultimate aim of every woman because it means the only real happiness."

Of course," she went on, "I have found happiness in my work. I think acting is a nice career for a woman. It's graceful and gratifying—but it has its drawbacks. There's something terrible in the thought that one is earning one's living merely because one is young and beautiful."

MUST BE READY TO QUIT

"Unless an actress has ability that will outlast her youth, she should choose some other work, so she has nothing to rely upon when she is no longer young. In the end they find heartbreak and failure."

Miss Sweet explained that she was speaking now of the women career means. "They say that profession success means happiness, but I wonder if that's quite true, even for them. I've seen them, when they are young, but there always a sense of discontent, of incompleteness."

"Of course, they acquire money and the admiration and envy of millions, but there must come a time when it all seems empty and meaningless. Every woman needs someone to love, someone to cling to, someone to work with and play and dream with."

BOTH WONT MIX

"Then there was the question: 'Why not have both—marriage and a career?'"

"That," said Miss Sweet, "is impossible. I mean, if a woman wants to attain the height of success on the stage or in the movies, she doesn't have time to make a success of her marriage."

"She can, of course, have a certain amount of success, but she should always let her marriage come first. The greatest glory that a woman can achieve is to become a happy grandmother."

"But this one," she said, "is not my ambition. She's going to be married again soon, she wouldn't say to whom. Her marriage to Producer Marshall Nelson several years ago was not, she admitted an unusually happy one."

"But this one," she said, "will be different. I know at last just what I want and just what I will make of my life. I think the secret of most people's unhappiness is that they are not sure what they want, so they go on striving for things which will never bring them happiness."

But Blanche Sweet is a person who knows what she wants and it is, as she said, "to be, eventually, a happy grandmother."

Beverly Mystery Puts Onus
on New England Smuggling;
Bootleg War Blamed Here

Alcohol smuggling off New England shores, reaching its greatest heights just before Christmas, is scheduled for a setback as the result of a federal grand jury session opening next Wednesday to investigate the mysterious disappearance of Henry and Allan Cooper from Beverly last Dec. 12.

The missing brothers' boat, heavily laden with Belgian alcohol, was found stove in near a rock shortly after their disappearance.

Federal agents working on the case have privately ascribed the disappearance to a bootleg war and will outline the reasons for their theory before the grand jury.

Once repeal the smuggling of alcohol has steadily increased off the New England coast and the "drops" or dandies for contraband has moved gradually southward.

Boston and Providence alcohol syndicates of the prohibition have resumed their operations and are known to have met about jury session opening next Wednesday to investigate the mysterious disappearance of Henry and Allan Cooper from Beverly last Dec. 12.

2 YEAR SHOE FIRMS OFFER GO BACK

Manufacturers Ready to Employ 1000 if the Union Will Agree to Dispute Board

If satisfactory labor agreements can be made with Lynn shoe workers, three factories which were part of the general exodus from the city last year following labor disputes will return and employ at once about 1000 workers and 5000 more later, Charles J. Goldman, representative of several Lynn manufacturers announced.

Goldman said he was perfecting a plan that would overcome union controversies with manufacturers, based on compulsory arbitration, and prohibiting unauthorized walk-outs.

Because there is a labor shortage of skilled shoe workers in nearby Massachusetts, Maine and New Hampshire communities, the shoe manufacturers are being forced to seek workers in other places, Goldman said.

BLAMES UNIONS

Lynn has lost out in the home of approximately 15,000 experienced workers.

Local autonomy of union agents was the cause of the removal of manufacturing plants from Lynn, Goldman said.

He pointed out that the removal of the plants from Lynn, he said, was the result of the blame on the union side.

I'll train you quickly for a live-wire field with a future--RADIO. $40, $60, $75 a week--that's what many Radio Experts make. $5, $10, $15 a week extra money--that's what many of my students make in their spare time shortly after enrolling. My free book tells you about Radio's spare time and full time opportunities--about my tested training--about my students and graduates--what they are doing and making. Get this book. Be a Radio Expert. Radio is big enough to absorb many more properly trained men.

Real Opportunities Ahead in Radio for Trained Men

It's hard to find a field with more opportunity awaiting the trained man. Why in 1934--one of the worst depression years--the Radio Industry sold $218,000,000 worth of sets and parts! Radio sets alone increased 45%--tube sales increased 25%. Over 300,000 people worked in the industry. It's a gigantic business, even in the worst business years. And look what's ahead! Millions of sets are becoming obsolete annually 17,000,000 sets are in operation on which over $200,000,000 spent each year for repairs, servicing, etc. These figures are so big that they're hard to grasp! Yet they're true! Here is a new industry that has grown to a commercial giant!

Get Into This Field With a Future

There's opportunity for you in Radio. Its future is certain. Television, short wave, police Radio, automobile Radio, loud speaker systems, aviation Radio--in every branch developments and improvements are taking place. Here is a field with a real future for thousands of men who really know Radio.

I'll Train You for Jobs Like These

Spare time and full time Radio Servicing, Operating Broadcast, Aviation Radio, Commercial Land, Ship and Television stations, a Radio service business of your own. I'll train you for these and other good jobs in the manufacture, sale and service of Radio, Sound and Television apparatus. There are over 100 different types of jobs that N. R. I. trains men for. My FREE book tells you about the many money-making opportunities in Radio. Get it--clip and mail the coupon.

Save--Learn at Home in Spare Time

You don't have to leave home to study Radio. I'll train you quickly and at low cost right in your own home and in your spare time for a good Radio job. You don't need a high school or college education. Many of my successful graduates didn't even finish grade school. My amazingly practical, 50-50 method of training--half with lessons, half with Radio equipment--gives you broad, practical experience--makes learning at home easy, fascinating, practical and rapid.

Many Make $5, $10, $15 a Week Extra in Spare Time While Learning

My book shows how my special training, instruction material, plans, ideas, and my twenty years' experience training men for Radio careers have helped many students make $5, $10, $15 a week extra in spare time while learning. My Course is famous as "the one that pays for itself."

writing to refund every penny of your money if you are not satisfied with my Lesson and Instruction Service when you finish.

Panel 20: Here's a New Year's Resolution
Every Girl Should Make . . .
Wash stockings after every wearing with lukewarm Lux suds. That's the way to cut down runs. Takes only 2 minutes!
Rubbing stockings with cake soap or using soaps containing harmful alkali weakens elasticity. Then, instead of giving under strain, threads break easily, go into runs. Lux has no harmful alkali—it saves elasticity.

Panel 21: Stockings fit better, last longer! Anything safe in water is safe in Lux. P. S. Cut down holes in men's socks, too!

Panel 22: LUX

ELIM FERGUSON'S SUSPICIONS THAT ELLEN HAD RECOGNIZED HIM WERE SOON DISPELLED WHEN HE SAW THAT SHE LOOKED BACK AT HIM MERELY TO SYMPATHETICALLY DIRECT A LITTLE FRIENDLY
CONVERSATION TO HIM--- TO WHICH HE REPLIES WITH NODS OF HIS HEAD OR WITH INCOHERENT MUMBLES!

ELIM'S HAT IS PULLED LOW OVER HIS EYES,
THE TURNED-UP COLLAR HIDES HIS CHIN--- AND
HE'S TAKING NO CHANCES OF TALKING ENOUGH
FOR HIS VOICE TO BE RECOGNIZED---LITTLE DOES
ELLEN KNOW THAT THE HITCH-HIKER BEING GIVEN A LIFT IN HER CAR IS HER FORMER HUSBAND
WHOM SHE THINKS DIED AT SEA YEARS AGO!

I WISH I COULD DRIVE YOU
FURTHER, STRANGER, BUT WE'RE TURNING BACK NOW--- PUT
THIS IN YOUR POCKET--- IT MAY COME IN HANDY!

THAT'S MIGHTY
NICE OF YOU,
MISTER---
YOU'RE TOO KIND
TO ME!

POOR OLD FELLOW---
NO MONEY---NO HOME
AND NO FRIENDS---
I FEEL SO SORRY
FOR HIM,
ABNER!

HE WASN'T
VERY TALKATIVE, WAS HE,
ELLEN?

A TWENTY-DOLLAR BILL! I HEARD
HER WHISPER FOR HIM TO GIVE ME
SOME MONEY--- SHE'S THE SAME OLD ELLEN--- SHE'S ALLUS
WAS KIND GENEROUS AND BIG-HEARTED---I'M AFRAID I DIDN'T APPRECIATE HER WHEN I HAD HER---

I'LL WATCH TILL THEY'RE OUT OF SIGHT BECAUSE THIS IS THE LAST TIME I'LL EVER SEE THEM---
IT'S THE PARTING OF THE WAYS--- THEY'RE GOING THEIR WAY AND I'M GOING
MINE!

I CAME HERE TO MAKE HER
COME BACK TO ME, BUT SHE'S BETTER OFF WITH HIM AND I'LL LET IT GO AT THAT--- THIS IS THE FIRST TIME IN MY LIFE
I EVER DID THE RIGHT THING AND I FEEL
PRETTY GOOD ABOUT IT!

WELL, YOU'RE BACK ARE YOU,
ABNER? IT SEEMS TO ME YOU
OUGHTA BLOW YOUR WIFE TO A SHOW OR SOMETHING INSTEAD OF JUST A RIDE!

SAY, THERE WAS NOTHING
CHEAP ABOUT THAT RIDE,
CASPER! IT COST
ME TWENTY DOLLARS!

I'M GLAD YOU GAVE THAT POOR MAN THE MONEY, ABNER, I'D SOONER DO WITHOUT SOMETHING, MYSELF!

ELLEN WAS BLUE AND MOODY
FOR A WHILE, BUT NOW SHE'S HER OLD SELF AGAIN--- SHE SAYS SHE FEELS AS IF SOME LOAD SHE CAN'T EXPLAIN HAS BEEN LIFTED FROM HER
SHOULDERS!

THERE'S A CAR

CASPER, WHAT ARE YOU SCREAMING
ABOUT?

LOOK WHO'S
HERE, TOOTS---

WELL, OF ALL
PEOPLE--- I'M SURE
GLAD TO SEE YOU---
COME RIGHT IN!

CASPER, WHO IS IT?

Now
WHO'S
HERE?

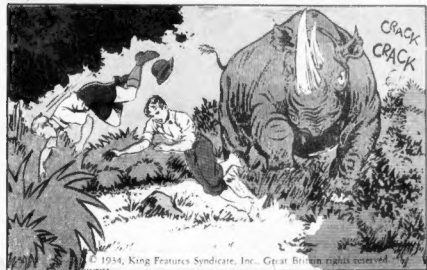

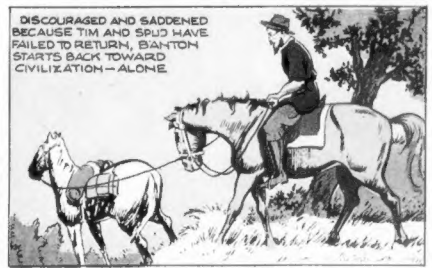

WELL, GIVE
